

eSky Romania recently contracted with Workspace Studio to help us find, design, build-out and furnish our new office spaces. It was as fine a corporate decision as any we have taken. And the finished product is available to be seen and enjoyed.

eSky Romania was at an inflection point: we had outgrown our existing office space. Our expanding work force needed space designed and equipped for this century.

Workspace Studio took the time to get to know our firm, its culture and its style. Together we found our space. Working with the building's contractors, they planned out an office design that worked for us. They kept us in the loop with 3d renderings and quick responses when revisions were necessary. They managed the build-out process, putting themselves, as our agents, between us and the building's contracting team. It's hard to quantify but it seems they helped make the build-out faster and cheaper than we had expected.

Then they furnished the raw space. They provided a range of products, from ready-made furniture to custom solutions that empowered our space and employees. The quality of their products, solutions and, most important, professional interaction exceeded our expectations - and did not exceed our budget.

If you're looking for a one stop office design and build solution, you will do well to seek out Workspace Studio.
